□ THE NEW National Committee on United States-China Relations, which has taken extraordinary pains to assert that it will take no formal positions as an organization but will limit itself to seeking "a constructive and honest debate," and which is seeking tax-exempt status as a non-profit educational organization, sent out its first press release from 218 E. 18th St., New York City, home of New York Friends Group, Inc., Gandhian Fund, Peace Information Center, Turn Toward Peace, and the Committee for World Development and World Disarmament.
